

Maintenance affected by Covid-19?

We know, we're tired of hearing about the subject too, but are here to help as needed.

The reduction in operations due to the Covid-19 pandemic has affected many already limited maintenance budgets. Supply chain issues for materials needed to complete projects in progress or planned are also a new challenge. And many new construction projects were cancelled or put on indefinite hold.

Good news, roofing was deemed an "essential" business early on and we've been working, while following all new safety protocols, this entire year. Depending on the severity of the coming winter, if you delayed or need to rethink your flat roofing project, our experts can schedule as needed. Our major membrane supplier, Duro-Last® has consistently delivered as ordered.

For concerns about social distancing, we can work through estimating remotely. During a roofing project, our team is removed from interaction with your employees or customers.

An Authorized Duro-Last Contractor

We install flat roofs year-round:

Reroofing a built-up tar roof is ideal in spring or fall.

Bitter cold just means more layers when we reroof a rubber roof in winter.

Even bright sun and 90° plus can't stop the install of a metal reroof.
